About Me!

I am a passionate and driven young developer eager to learn and explore new technologies. With a solid foundation in Java, SQL, HTML, and PHP acquired at university, I have also taught myself cross-platform mobile development using Flutter.

I aspire to become a full-stack developer, leveraging object-oriented programming languages like Java, database languages like MySQL, and server-side technologies like PHP. I aim to utilize frameworks such as Spring and React to contribute to a company's productivity and deliverables while advancing my development career. I am actively seeking graduate programs or internships to grow my skills and make meaningful contributions.
